

DONALD C. MEYER

Associate Director—Development

Expertise: Estate and tax planning, resource development

Prior to joining the Hoover Institution in 1997, Donald Meyer was director of planned giving for Stanford University. He served as university counsel (taxes) for Princeton University from 1982 to 1989. The holder of a J.D. from the University of Iowa Law School, he has practiced law in a private firm in Cedar Rapids, Iowa; served as general counsel and assistant to the president of a small national newspaper chain; and provided tax and estate planning services to wealthy families as an independent consultant.