

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book and its companion volume, Varieties of Progressivism in America, appear under the auspices of the Hoover Institution's Initiative on American Individualism and Values. Both volumes are animated by the conviction that it is advantageous, particularly at this moment of high partisan passion in the United States, to explore the inclinations, opinions, and ideas that inform partisan differences, as well as the principles that partisans in America share. The volumes, and the conviction that animates them, have enjoyed the generous support of Hoover Institution director John Raisian and deputy director David Brady.